REVOLUTION IN TEXAS.

It will be remembered, that in the beginning of her revolution, in 1835, Texas offered large bounties in land to volunteers to serve in her armies.

We can now offer, to the survivors, and heirs of those who thus served, the recovery of all the lands promised by the Government of Texas. We are also prepared to prosecute all

Texas land claims regardless of date or character, whether Spanish, Mexican, or American.

Bounty, Scrip, or Headright. Having complete access to the Mexican rolls, Maps, Records, and other documents in the Public Offices at Austin city, we enjoy superior advantages for investigations of all kinds in regard to claims.

We will give particular attention to the recovery of lands illegally sold, for taxes or otherwise, and to estates which have suffered from inattention or mismanagement of agents or administrators.

To persons having LAND CERTIFICATES for LO-CATION, we can offer particular inducements.

Our thorough and intimate knowledge of the vacant lands and surveys of the state, obtained from personal inspection, insures the most favorable locations, and perfect titles.

LONG EXPERIENCE, and close attention to the LAND SYSTEM and an accurate knowledge of the different classes of titles, together with the large amount of land registered in our office for sale, enables us to furnish prompt and reliable information, and assistance to persons desiring good homes, and to afford superior advantages to those wishing to make safe and

PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS.

We are offering for SALE LANDS in every part of the state—improved, or unimproved, of every variety, and in tracts to suit purchasers;

also town and city lots—in short every kind of real estate on the most favorable terms.

To persons having land in Texas for sale, we would say, that we keep books, in which are registered descriptions (furnished by the owners, or obtained by personal inspection) and full exhibits of title &c., of all tracts to be sold, thus furnishing a cheap and effective mode of advertisement. If desired, we will examine land in any part of the state, ascertain its value, and report faithfully. Registering for one dollar.

We invite the attention of MERCHANTS,

HUSERS, and individuals to our office—furnishing a speedy and effective mode of collecting.

By activity, energy, and fidelity to the interests of our employers we hope to merit the confidence of the business public.

THE services of Mr. WALLER have been permanently secured. GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, KENTUCKY.

THIS Institution occupies a high rank among Western Colleges. Its Library, Cabinet, Museum, and apparatus are unrivaled. Its literary course is the same as that of Yale College, while its scientific course embraces all the best portions of the course at West Point.

For young men designed for practical business there is a course of three years in which a thorough knowledge is imparted in agricultural Chemistry, Physiology, Zoology, Exact and Engineering, Principles of Commerce, and Book Keeping. In this practical feature the College is believed to be unequalled. Its high aim is to furnish American scholars, and American business men. The rapidly increasing number of Students in attendance is proof of its high rank and efficiency.

This seat of learning is no mere experiment; whose permanence is doubtful, and whose diploma is therefore of uncertain value. It is in a position to exercise and maintain a wholesome discipline without the fear of extinguishment; and to require of its students every thing scholarly and manly in their deportment. It has boarding arrangements adapted to all classes of students; and so adjusted as to avoid the dangers inseparable from the practice of crowding 150 or 200 young men into one building. Students for the ministry can board for about $40 per College year. Others of known good moral habits, for about $65 or 70; while those who may prefer boarding in private families can do so at from $80 to 100. No student is allowed to board in any family but such as the Faculty shall approve, and a strict and kind supervision is exercised by the Faculty over every student wherever he may board.

The scholastic year is divided into two sessions. The first commences on the third Monday in September; the second, on the first Monday in February.

COMMENCEMENT DAY

Occurs on the last Thursday in June. Tuition

$20 per session.

GALLERY OF ART!

S. T. BANCROFT,

HAS fitted up a PORTRAIT GALLERY, two doors below his former studio. The indians are especially invited to call and examine closely and critically the beauty that decorates his walls. Ladies you cannot show your lovely faces in his room too frequently. Come often and fail not to bring your friends. All gentlemen who have a love for the beautiful are cordially invited to his Gallery. Mothers, would you have ever present with you your darling children as they now appear? Get their portraits—Children would you have your parents' portraits as a rallying point around which the affections can gather when time shall have effaced from your memory the brightness of your mother's smile, the approving looks of a fond father?—Get them painted. Young Wives your husband's beauty like the flowers plucked and exposed to the sun, will surely fade.

Husbands deter not too long the time that your wife shall sit for their portraits. It is so difficult to foretell the future. There is such an uncertainty in human affairs; a word to the wise is sufficient.

For the Herald. The boy is father to the man.

There is a something purifying in the remembrance of boyhood—a refreshment in the mnemonic revival of that playful innocence and those refined sensibilities, long since blunted by the rude contact of after years with the world.

Now who don't feel that he is a purer and better man, when, after abstracting himself from the bitter present, he looks in the fields of the sunny past and he-like sips of all the sweets of the myriad passion flowers which gaudily lift Don't it rejuvenate you when you think of your boy chronology? then the seasons were marked and recognized by the joys and pleasures they brought with them—then your youthful almanac recorded, not the change of moons, but the change of sports, and plays as adapted to the mutations of the seasons—each one bearing its own special fun-caller. Then you instituted your comparisons between the different seasons but never failed to give judgment in favor of the one under present enjoyment—Each one was considered the best. At one time you hailed the presence of the Spring months as the loveliest triad of the year. Don't you remember then with what joy and transport you welcomed the day when your father and mother gave you permission to go bare-footed—with what contempt you cast off your winter shoes and stored them in the dark little room in the garret and how in celebration of this foot-freedom you ran frisking about over the grass, and how you'd tramp about in the warm turnpike dust just to see how it would feel? Those were sunny days! but did you never have a shadow come over them? Did you never stamp that conspicuous big toe against some villainous brick-bat and make the blood come and the tears trickle down your youthful cheeks? Ah! who but a boy can appreciate the agony of a stumped toe! Just imagine yourself young again, [delightful isn't it?] seated by a roadside, with the unfortunate toe in your lap squeezing it and crying at intervals O Lord! as the blood drops fall from it—big tears standing in your eyes and the malicious brick-bat in sight—I say just imagine yourself in this predicament and you will discover the fountain source of many a tear stream; you will have a true picture of your younger self—a life-like daguerotype taken by the light of other days. Oh what an inconvenience to you, after having acquired such an independence, to submit that just emancipated toe to the rag fetters of another slavery! but you submit to have it tied up, for your mother has assured you of its speedy convalescence, and you go limping away, if not broken hearted, at least almost broken toed. Soon your playmates happen along and you join in their sports and the invalid toe is forgotten, unless some accident opens the wound afresh.

And don't you remember when a nice April shower came along, with what ineffable pleasure you would roll up above the knee, your little blue cottonade pants, to keep them from getting wet, and wade through the just born rivulets coursing down the gutters? and did you never, while thus in the height of your aquatic sports, encounter a stone and feel her splash into the water? Ah! with what terrible apprehensions you went plodding homeward, covered with mortification in art and, expecting on your arrival a refreshing birch argument on the impropriety of your conduct.

When the next shower came it excited the same old bump of wadiveness, and you were anxious again to enjoy the sport, but, vividly remembering the lucid process of argument on that subject and haunted by the ghost of those discolored pants, you content yourself with tramping about in the soft warm mud, and as the semi-fluid mixture would ooze up between your toes, what an all-over-ness of pleasant feeling would possess you! Still afraid to explore the depths of the muddy rivulet, you stand upon its brink, watching the little waves rippling laughingly along, until your neighbor Fred comes by, when you propose to run boat-race with him. Don't you recollect with what care you would select the lightest little piece of bark, and shaping it like a boat, would launch it, together with your hopes for its success, upon the turbid little stream, and name it after some big boat or race horse, and with intensity of expectation you would watch its every movement, now behind, now before that of your little neighbor Fred's? And how, when you thought success had perched upon your little craft, you would shout 'Hooray for Grey Eagle' and then, all of a sudden it would get caught in an eddy and his boat would outstrip you. Oh! then what mortification, what chagrin! Your pride was excited and you offer to bet him three pins you can beat him in the next race, but he declines and so you quit.

And did you ever build mill-dams across the little infant rivers of a spring shower, carrying mud in your tiny hands, until you completely changed the complexion of nature's gloves? And then with what pleasure you contemplated that wondrous structure, confining within its mad precincts, the angry little stream. Alas! those times have past and memory seems now but a cemetery replete with the tombs of buried joys—yet we like to linger among them and rethink of them as departed friends; we love to revivify them in imagination, and live them over again. But when we look at our present selves, alas how changed! yet with all we can trace in the blossom the lineaments—the features of the bud. We still keep our calendars, but not by play days, not by fun reckonings. Each day is treasured not for its pleasure but its profit. Chilling utility has dispelled the warmth of youthful enjoyment. We have acquired an eternal emancipation from our mother's apron string and we can wade just when and where we please; we no longer look for her advice to guide our foot steps—we are men in age, feeling and education. We still often meet with stumbling blocks in our after lives, even more harassing than those of early youth. The April showers still come, but we enjoy them not as before—they have lost what used to be their charm. 'Tis well it should be so with persons of mature years. But whence the change in boys of the present day—they still are young, as we once were, but still they have nothing scarcely which characterized the youth of our day and generation. Ah! no, they seem far in advance of the boys of former days—there are no boys now-a-days; they are all young gentlemen—they either inherit, assume or steal that dignity of manner years which is not properly their own and ill, becomes their age. Before they have entered their teens you find them scorning the idea of going bare-footed and encasing their delicate little feet in a pair of tight boots of the most fashionable and exquisite make. And when a shower comes, instead of indulging in the luxury of a healthy wade or any thing else boyish, you will probably hear the exclamation 'oh dem me Fwed is a vewy wofweshing wain—my dear follah how do you do think it will affect the agricultural classes?'

Oh Henry I really think its charming to have such a wain, but I am apprehensive it will prevent my buggy ride. Do have a cigar my charming follah and let's go and get a toddy—is entirely too damp without a stimulant. Ah! dem me Fwed, that wou'd be foize; but pray excuse me my dear follah, any other time with pleasure; but there goes that dem'd adorable creature Miss—who is dead in love with me! See! She's trying to catch my 'most expressive eye' as she styles it, poor girl, really my dear follah you must excuse me this time; I must go and encourage her a little.

Adieu mon ami! And this pair of miniature men—physical and intellectual dumps—gravely tipping their respective beavers, twirling their fashionable unmentionables 'a world too wide for their shrunken shanks' and flourishing their fancy canes depart on their respective errands—the one to encourage a coquettish maiden of mature charms, with his foppish and affection; and the other to patronize some bar-berous institution in our midst, by imbibing a modicum of 'the genial juice of the corn.' Such alas! is a sample of some of the highly intellectual manly and profitable amusements of too many of the boyish representatives of the precocious Young America of the present day and generation. Some of which alas! are even yet less innocent, less manly, and more reprehensible in their character.

Would that in thoughts that breath and words that burn, wisdom, the true wisdom of manly boyhood, could be conveyed through the humble medium of this 'gray goose quill,' to the minds of those unfortunate youths who thus sacrifice upon the altar of a ridiculous vanity and base appetite the nobler attributes of true manhood!

"Oh! was some power the giftie gie 'em To see themselves as others see them." Ah if our title be correct, and 'the boy is father to the man,' what monsters of deformity may we not expect to result from the propagation of their kind by these degenerate scions of boasted Young America. A. J. BIRD.

George-town, Oct. 1854.

EXTRAORDINARY OCCURRENCE.—Mr. J. O. Frazer returned to his home a few miles from this city, and in this (Fayette) county, on Saturday night last, 30th ult., after an absence of near five months, during which time he had been in New York, attending to the sale of different lots of cattle, which were sent to him from time to time, by his partner, Mr. Lewis Castleman, of this county. Mr. Frazer was in fine health, and in the full vigor of middle age, but he had not been under half an hour, before he was a corpse.

What is most extraordinary, he came to his death suddenly and by an natural means. His partner, Mr. Castleman, met Frazer at the ears in this city, on their arrival from Paris, about 6 o'clock, P. M. They both started home together, about 7 o'clock; and after stopping a short time at Castleman's, to take tea, they proceeded to Mr. Frazer's house, where Castleman left him between 8 and 9 o'clock. Castleman did not go in to the house, and says they were met, near the front porch, first by Frazer's servant John, and then by Mr. George Grigg, a young man, who had been acting as Frazer's overseer, during his absence.

Castleman returned immediately home, and had not been in his house exceeding forty minutes, when his brother, Mr. David Castleman, rode into the front yard, in great haste, informing him that Frazer had shot himself. Lewis Castleman immediately mounted his brother's horse and rode over to Frazer's; and after calling several times, Grigg appeared in the front door with a light.

They went immediately to the dining room where Frazer lay upon a lounge, dead. Castleman was the first person who arrived at the house. Upon making inquiry of Grigg, he gave the following account of the occurrence. He said that Frazer, Mrs. Frazer, their daughter, who is a child about ten years of age, and himself were sitting on the front porch, when some rats appeared in the front yard. Frazer told them to keep still, and he would go in, get the gun and shoot them. He went accordingly. They heard him get the gun and cock it, and as he came out of the door he stumbled, either in consequence of catching his foot in Mrs. F's dress, or from striking his foot against some other object; and while he was in the act of falling, the gun went off, inflicting the fatal wound. Grigg said that F. fell somewhere on the porch, and that he helped him to rise; and when he was up he ran in through the hall door into the dining room, where he fell and expired. The charge from the gun passed through the hand of Frazer, into his left side, immediately below the ribs.

Such is also the substance of the testimony of both Grigg and Mrs. Frazer, as related before the Coroner's inquest the little girl told, though not quite so minute in all particulars, gives about the same relation. There was some further testimony, but our purpose was not to go into particulars, but simply to give an outline. The Coroner's jury brought in a verdict to the effect as we understand, that the deceased came to his death from a gun-shot wound, inflicted by some person to the jurors unknown. The public mind, in the meantime, became much excited; rumor was rife; and finally, late Sunday night, Judge Graves, of the County Court, issued a warrant for the apprehension of Grigg and Mrs. Frazer. They were brought before his honor yesterday afternoon, to undergo an examination while we write, (Tuesday morning,) the examination is in progress.

It is terrible to think that the wife of the deceased should be so far suspected as to cause her arrest; and we sincerely hope that the investigation may fully vindicate her innocence as well as that of Grigg. If the examination should be concluded before we go to press, we will inform our readers of the result. LATER.—The examination is not yet concluded, nor is it likely to be for some time.

Correspondence of the Yeoman.

Major Breckinridge in Owen.

Major Breckinridge met with a most enthusiastic reception from the citizens of our county, on his late visit to Owenton. The town was thronged with his admirers from the various districts, eager and anxious to hear him on his return from Washington; and his appearance on the stand was hailed in a manner that must have been a source of very great delight to him. I suppose here never was a man more eminently popular than Major Breckinridge in this county. The tie that bound him to us has broken.—We are no longer a part of the Congressional District in which he resides. A Whig Legislature, for party purposes, cut off the Democratic Owen from the Ashland District, and we cannot now in every Congressional canvass, pile up our votes as heretofore against the Letchers and nor have any share in the pending struggle which is destined to result in the downfall of Whiggery in one of its strongest holds; where it might be supposed, if any thing could, the ashes of Henry Clay would be made to rise up and stop the progress of Democratic principles. And yet, although Major Breckinridge has been placed beyond the reach of our assistance, and we have been denied a share in the triumphs which await him in every thing that affects, or is likely to affect him, in his political career. We have rallied under his banner, and found him to be a chivalrous and successful leader; and our hearts are with him, wherever he may be, and in what field soever, he may serve. The large majority that we rolled up for him in the last canvass will be greatly increased, should his name ever come before us again.

He is a man of rare talents, and rich promise, and Kentucky is expecting the day when he will take his rank among her most favored sons. It is not improbable—it is reduced almost to a certainty, that the Major will, one day, and that before long, be the Governor of our State. He will fill with honor that honorable position. The State will be proud of him, and among her hundred counties, not one will be found to have done more for him, more to take greater pride in his elevation, than this of ours.

Major Breckinridge no doubt, will be the next Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ashland District, and he will be elected. What that District could do with Owen, she can do without Owen.—The Legislature has afforded him a weapon which he has strength to use; and thoughtful, honest, upright men of the Whig party will refrain from sanctioning an act, the design of which was, plainly and palpably, to defeat and crush, the only man in the Ashland District, who promises to rival in glory, the illustrious Clay.

The Baby Exhibition.

Until we received a large hand-bill and a circular from Springfield yesterday, setting forth in detail the particulars of the baby show which is to 'come off' in that town on the 5th of October, we supposed the report of the exhibition of 'yearlin' and 'two years old' babies was a plesantry, got up by some witty old old bachelor or good-natured old maid—on the principle that it is happiness to enjoy in fancy that which they never can in reality—but we have been mistaken. The baby exhibition is a fixed fact, and is in the actual programme of the Fair, and it is expected that quite a large number of entries will be made. We learn that three complete silver tea sets, each consisting of a coffee urn, two tea pots, a sugar bowl, a cup and saucer, are to be distributed as prizes. The babies are to be native-born, and of true Caucasian blood, and a gentleman is now on East purchasing the tea pots and things. The first grand sweep-stakes premium will be given to the finest baby not exceeding two years of age; the second to the finest baby over one and not over two years old; the third to the finest baby not over one year old. We have received from the Managers the list of the Awarding Committee, which is as follows:

Gen. W. O. Butler, Ky. O. S. Fowler N. Y. Brutus J. Clay, Ky. Hon. H. Mann, Ohio. Gov. Wood, Ohio. Hon. Jesse Phillips, O. Dr. Joshua Martin, O. J. D. Phillips O. Rev. I. N. Walters, O. Dr. T. O. Edwards, O.

Mrs. Lucrécia Mott, Phil'a. Mrs. J. Swisshelm, Pitt'sg. Fanny Fern, N. Y. Mrs. J. J. Crittenden, Ky. Mrs. A. DeGraff, Dayton. Mrs. A. Hiveling, Xenia. Mrs. Major Hunt, O. Mrs. H. Griswold, O. Mrs. C. Robbins, O. Mrs. Wm. Vance, O.

We also learn that an eminent American lady has been invited, and is expected to read an essay on the mental and physical training of children.

Such are the substantial facts in regard to the Baby Show, and having been widely diffused, we have no doubt that many an anxious mother has put her precious little darling in training for the first prize. We are at a loss to know the exact points which will govern the committee in making the awards—whether it will be the color of their eyes, ringlets or straight hair, the phrenological formation of the head or the physical development of the body, the number and size of the teeth, the color of the complexion, the tone of the voice, or the general appearance of the cherubs.

We do not believe all, or even a majority of the committee will agree readily upon award. There is such variety of opinion in regard to baby beauty; and then it is a well-known fact that handsome babies generally make homely men and women. Now our friend, the editor of the Enquirer, who is acknowledged to be one of the handsomest men in Cincinnati, was, we have been told, quite an ordinary looking baby; while on the other hand, the editor of the Times was quite a prodigy of infantile loveliness; and we have no doubt that the editor of the Louisville Journal, who has often spoken of the Louisville editors, will, if he should pursue his inquiries back to the time when his contemporaries were 'muling and puking in their nurses' arms,' find that they were considered little cupids; barring the bow and arrows and the wings.

We cannot, however, see what practical, good will result from this baby exhibition, in the future. Is it presumed the shows will be a means of improving the breed, as they do short horns, Berkshires and Morgans. If so, how is the thing to be done? Are all the babies hereafter to be fatted and slicked up for County Fairs in the Autumn, until their skins shine like varnish, and their legs are so plump that you cannot see the knee-joints? Are they all to have double-chins?

But we shall pursue these inquiries no farther. The show undoubtedly will attract great attention, thousands will attend to witness so much combined beauty and innocence. We hope no one will be disappointed, and that the premium babies will grow up to be worthy men and women, and that the tea-pot, sugar-bowl, and slop-basin will ever remind them of their beauty of their babyhood, without causing them to forget the old adage, in mature life, that 'handsome is who handsome does.'

The Great Baby Show.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—The National Baby Show took place at Springfield today. There were one hundred and twenty entries.

The first premium for the finest baby, two years old or under, was a tea set, with a salver, valued at $300; the second, a tea set, valued at $200; the third, for the finest child under one year of age, $200; the fourth, a marble group.

The first premium was awarded to Mrs. Bonner, of Vienna, O.; the second to Mrs. McDowell, of Cincinnati; the third to Mrs. Arthur Cannon, of Philadelphia; the fourth to Mrs. Henry Howe, of Cincinnati.

A letter was read from Fanny Fern to the dedication of all concerned. Letters were also read from Mrs. Swisshelm, Mrs. Crittenden, Mrs. Mott, and Horace Greely. The latter thought that much attention should be given to the development of the human constitution in a country where able-bodied men sold for $500 to $1,500.

Mrs. Mott thought black babies should be admitted.

Among the exhibitors was an old woman, who came with her seventeenth child. She claimed a premium on that round.

ASA AND IRA.

BY ELLY LARSON.

Asa and Ira were two brothers, whose farms lay side by side in a fertile interval.

When the corn, the oats, and the barley were springing up, the weeds took advantage of the rich soil, and came up with them.

'Do you see,' said Asa, 'what a hold the weeds are taking? There is danger of their choking out the crops entirely.'

'Well, well, we must be resigned,' replied Ira; 'weeds as well as the grain were a part of the Creator's plan; and there is no use murmuring about them.' And he lay down for his usual afternoon doze.

'I can only be resigned to what I cannot help,' said Asa. So he went to work, and ploughed and hoed, until his fields were cleared of weeds.

'The army worms are in the neighborhood,' said Asa to Ira one day. 'They have eaten through the adjoining meadows, and are moving towards us.'

'Ah!' exclaimed Ira. 'They will surely destroy what the weeds have not choked out. I will immediately retire to pray that their course may be stopped or turned aside.'

But Asa replied, 'I pray betimes every morning, for strength to do the work of the day.'

And he hastened to dig a trench around his land, which the army-worms could not pass; while Ira returned only in season to save a small portion of his crops from their ravages.

'Do you see, Ira?' said Asa, another morning, 'the river is rising very fast. There is but a slender chance of preventing our farms from being overflowed.'

'Alas! it is a judgment upon us for our sins, and what can we do?' cried Ira, throwing himself in despair upon the ground.

'There are no judgments so severe as those which our own sloth brings upon us,' replied Asa.

And he went quickly, and hired workmen, with whose help he raised an embankment that withstood the flood, while Ira witnessed with blank looks and folded hands, the destruction of his harvest.

'There is one consolation,' said he: 'my children at least are left me.'

But while Asa's sons grew up strong and virtuous men, among Ira's there was a drunkard, a gambler, and a suicide.

'The ways of the Lord are not equal,' complained Ira to his brother. 'Why are you always prospered, while I am afflicted, and my old age disgraced?'

'I truly know this,' replied Asa; 'that Heaven has always helped me to treat the faults of my children as I did the weeds, caterpillars, and the flood; and that I have never presumed to send a petition upward without making Toil, my right-hand servant, the messenger of my prayer.'

Mrs. Anne Royall died at Washington on Sunday, at her residence, on Capitol Hill. She was, we learn, aged ninety-two years. For the last quarter of a century she was the editress of a weekly paper, the name of which was, originally, the Paul Pry, but was afterwards changed to that of the Huntress. She was the authoress of several volumes, entitled the 'Black Book,' a narrative of travel throughout the United States, and criticism of individual character. She was a woman of considerably literary attainments, and benevolence, and of strict integrity, although somewhat peculiar in her views. Her husband having been a captain in the army of the Revolution, she, as his widow, drew a pension of forty dollars a month. About six months ago she announced, after recovering from a severe attack of sickness, that she felt as strong and healthy as she did at any former period of her existence. However, she then trembled with age, as might naturally be expected. But she is gone, after a long period of active life, during which her name has become familiar, especially among visitors to the metropolis, many of whose portraits, painted in her usual graphic style, adorned the 'gallery' of the Huntress.

Mrs. Royall was born in Virginia, and at an early age was stolen by the Indians, with whom she continued until she had seen fifteen summers in the western part of that State. After her release, she met with captain Royall, who became her husband; and then it was that she first acquired the rudiments of an English education, having graduated, as it were, in the free schools of nature. Captain Roy, all removed to Alabama, and as a planter, dispensed his ample hospitalities. She had a half-brother, Colonel Butler, of Ohio, who acted a prominent part in the late war with Great Britain. He afterwards served in the legislature of Indiana, and, but a few years since, died in Cass county, in that State.—Times.

The investigation of the case of the Commonwealth vs. George Grigg and Elizabeth Fraser, on a warrant charging them with the murder of James O. Frazer, noticed by us in our last, is still progressing before Judge Graves, of the County Court. The testimony for the County Court. The testimony for the Commonwealth was closed on Wednesday evening and for the defence on Friday morning. At the time this paragraph is written (4 o'clock P. M. Friday) the rebutting testimony of the Prosecution is being given in. We suppose that the case will be concluded so early this evening, and the decision of his Honor announced. The testimony on both sides is very voluminous, and the Revised Code requiring the testimony to be taken down by the Examining Court, accounts for the time which has been spent in the examination of the case.

The Prosecution is conducted by Messrs. C. D. Carr, County Attorney, Shy & Beck and George Robertson. The Defence by Messrs. Harrison & Hunt, Hanson & Woolley, W. A. Dudley and M. C. Johnson.

Since the above was in type, the testimony has been closed, and the argument is now progressing.—Observer.

It is calculated by experienced housekeepers, as an article of food, potatoes at a dollar and a half per bushel are equal to ten dollars a barrel for flour.

The Empire says potatoes are purchased a few miles north of that city at 25 cents a bushel, and resold in Dayton at $1.50 per bushel—a profitable speculation for the hucksters.

LAND FOR SALE.

ABOUT removing to the State of Missouri, I offer for sale my land in Scott and Bourbon counties, containing about in one body. This Farm is justly considered one of the best stock farms, and in one of the Best Locations in the State.

It lies on both sides of the Turnpike road from Georgetown to Paris, where it crosses the Bourbon line, adjoining the farm of Elder John A. Gano and others; is seven miles from Georgetown, and nine from Paris, and thirteen miles from Lexington by the Newtown and Lexington turnpike, which passes two of the finest mills in the State, three and four miles distant. The farm is now in first-rate repair, the fencing being nearly all newly built, and the lands all well set in blue grass and clover, except the portion that has been plowed the present year, and about 200 acres of the cleared land has been grazed for more than 20 years in succession without being plowed. There is now an ample supply of stock water on different parts of the farm for a large stock during the present drought, and it is thought by some that there is a sufficient quantity of black locust timber growing on the farm to keep the fencing in perpetual repair. The land is susceptible of division into two or three tracts of convenient form. There are

Two good Dwelling Houses, on the land. The Mansion House is a two story brick building with porches and kitchen attached, all in good repair, and superior stabling and granaries, and comfortable and healthy quarters for thirty slaves, together with meat-house, ice house, spring-house, and all other out-buildings necessary to a well regulated farm. The other dwelling is a good two story stone house, the former residence of F. O. Well, deceased, and can be bought separately with in a compact form, which abuts on the south side of the turnpike, above one half mile. This tract contains a fair proportion of timber and water, and has on it a valuable barn, with mule sheds, a two story brick spring house, ice house, and a young apple orchard, bearing a select variety of fruit, and is now untenanted. Full possession can be given at any day. I am fully satisfied that a better bargain cannot be had in any lands now in market in this country. Liberal credit will be given for part of the purchase money.

Mr. A. S. Whitford resides on the premises, and in my absence will show them to any person, and give information as to terms, &c.

There is now on the farm a large lot of live stock, crop, farming utensils, &c, which will be sold soon at public sale, of which due public advertisement will be made.

Letters addressed to me at Newtown, Scott county, will receive attention.

JOHN S. FINLEY.

The Doctrine of the New Jerusalem Church.

Otherwise styled the Doctrines of Swedenborg, are but little understood by the majority; consequently but little appreciated; that is according to their inestimable value and deep importance—These doctrines have done us good; have taught us to be more lenient, more charitable, more hopeful; they have made us more confident of a hereafter—have given us a glimpse of that home wherein dwell beauties and comforts and joys of which 'eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath entered into the imagination of man to conceive.'

And so we are anxious that others may share this great good with us; it being a prominent belief of the Swedenborgian, that just so far as he puts away self, and strives for the good of others, just so far is he a true Christian, desiring of happiness and of Heaven.

No one need fear these doctrines, and no one can be opposed to them, save those who are opposed to God, and goodness. Try them by reason, examine them by the rules of science, bring them to the test of comparison with God's Word—try them by any standard of truth, weigh them in any balance of justice—they will not be found wanting, and they will stand the test. Examine them by the side of all other Doctrines, and see in which scale Reason and Revelation will be found to preponderate.

We have said that these Doctrines are as yet but little known, but we unhesitatingly assert that amid all sects, something of their searching influence is beginning to be observed; many who know nothing of these doctrines as doctrines, are yet believers in their hearts of some of the primary and principle articles of the New Church Creed such as the disposition among religious men to place charity before faith; to judge his fellow man not by his creed but by his life; by his practice rather than by his profession; and to join faith to works.

We make these remarks in no spirit of strife or of vain glory, but with pleasure, truth, and hope; and will conclude them by a quotation which should be written in letters of gold, and which we believe will be concurred in by every true follower of God.

'No one is condemned to Hell on account of the land of his nativity, or his ignorance of the truth, or of the peculiar religious faith in which he may have been educated. We believe that adequate means of salvation are through the mercy and providence of the Lord, extended to the whole human race. We believe that men of every nation and of every religious creed be they Christian, Jews, Mahometans or Pagans are saved, provided they live in mutual love and charity from a religious principle, according to the best light that is given them. Any doctrine but this is unreasonable. As well might it be said that because a man happened to be born in Christendom he would be saved, as to assert that a man born in Pagan lands must necessarily be damned. We believe that our salvation depends not upon what we know and believe but in what manner we live and obey the truths we understand; hence that if a Pagan lives in love and charity according to the best light given him, he will be saved.

We believe, therefore, with the Apostle, "That God is no respecter of persons; but that in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness is accepted of Him." Acts 10. 34. 35.

It is believed that the happiness of Heaven and of the angels consists not in idleness, nor in praying and psalm singing, nor in fasting, nor in being exalted to high honors, but in the active performance of spiritual uses from true neighborly love; in the free exercise and expansion of all their noblest faculties, and this not for the sake of themselves, but for the good of others.

It is believed that every devil or evil spirit goes to his own society freely, and that he is happier there than he would be in Heaven. Nevertheless their happiness is misery when compared with the joys of Heaven.

It is believed that immediately after death man enters the Spiritual world [death being only the casting off the material body which will never be resumed] that he then has a spiritual yet substantial body, which will live to all eternity. That man enters the spiritual world immediately, is obvious from our Lord's promise to the thief "This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise."

Such are some of those revelations which though penned by that great and good man Swedenborg, are as truly Divine inspiration as are the Epistles of the Apostles! at least such is our belief, and what is more, the belief of men of rare knowledge, of earnest minds and of pure hearts; of men whose walk and conversation are living monuments of the purity, piety and practical utility of the revelations and teachings of Baron Swedenborg.

The Frankfort Commonwealth furnishes the following additional particulars with reference to the death of Frazer, and the arrest of his wife and overseer on a charge of having murdered him.

Since we received the paper containing the above, we have seen a gentleman who was in Lexington during part of the time of the trial before examining court, and who heard part of the evidence. We learn from him that Mr. Casdemen stated in his testimony that when he brought Frazer home he saw Grigg, the overseer, and that he was in his ordinary working clothes, but that when he came back and found Frazer dead, Grigg was dressed in fresh clean clothes—his pants being white and perfectly clean, with the ironing marks plain upon them. That there was no blood on the porch where Grigg and Mrs. Frazer said Frazer had shot himself and fallen; but that there was a good deal of blood upon the walls of the passage, through which Grigg said he had helped Frazer after he was shot. These marks Grigg explained by saying that Frazer was frantic with pain, and threw his wounded hand out and struck the wall. The carpet was gone from the dining room floor, and seemed to have been recently taken up, and the table which Mr. C. had always, when he went there, seen standing in the middle of the floor, was removed. Grigg, upon being questioned as to the clothes he had on when Frazer came home, said he had taken them off, but failed to produce them. On search they could not be found; but in a fire-place in one of the negro cabins were found cinders and buttons of some clothing that had evidently been just consumed.

Another witness stated that besides the wound in the hand and body, there was a bruise on Frazer's forehead as of a heavy blow, and also some marks upon his neck that might have been produced by choking.

The examination had not concluded up to Thursday evening; but the general impression at Lexington was, we are told, that Grigg certainly, and probably Mrs. Frazer also would be committed for trial in the circuit court.

Mrs. Frazer is a daughter of the late Maj. Wm. S. Daffam, and sister to the lady of Mr. Wm. Robb, late of Frankfort, and closely connected with some of the most respectable citizens of Fayette. It is devoutly to be hoped, for the sake of friends as well as herself, that the investigation may show her guiltless of the terrible accusation.

ANOTHER REDUCTION.—We have already noted several instances where the newspaper press, in consequence of the security of paper and the increased cost of publishing, have either had to resort to a correspondent increase of prices, or a reduction of their dimension. We have now another to add to the number. The New York Daily Sun, one of the oldest, penny papers in the country, appeared yesterday, considerably reduced in size.

RESTITUCTION BY WATER.—Under this the Louisville Courier notices the saving of the lives of three men who had become apparently lifeless in a foul well, from the happy thought of a man who poured down a cask of water in a stream. The press should have long ago made the fact public, [as it is well established] that water poured into a foul well will produce the effect above described.

The 'State Medical Society' meets at Covington on Wednesday, Oct. 18. The proceedings of this body will doubtless be of exceeding interest to the profession throughout the State; and a general attendance thereof is expected and desired. At the close of the proceedings, a Banquet will be given by the Covington Medical Society to the Kentucky State Medical Society, on Friday evening, Oct. 20. The committee of invitation are Messrs. R. Fretlow, J. J. Delaney and F. Major. We doubt not that the entertainment will be a brilliant affair; and therefore regret that business engagements will preclude the possibility of our accepting the cordial invitation to be present on the occasion.

A telegraphic dispatch from Detroit, of the 9th inst; announces the burning of the steamer E. K. Collins on its way from that place to Cleveland. She took fire about midnight, and twenty three persons perished by fire or drowning.

The price of breadstuffs is now much lower in England than in America.

A WORD FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.—Let us be thankful that butter is not an absolute necessity. Let us rejoice that potatoes are not so wonderfully wholesome after all. Let us be glad that tomatoes are more of a luxury than a true nourisher of frail bodies. Let us console ourselves that the peaches in market are poor woolly things, not really fit for pigs to munch, while apples are a much finer fruit; and corn in all its forms, of Indian meal, hominy and mush, is more wholesome as well as a good deal cheaper than fine wheat flour. While butter sells for forty cents a pound, it is a merit to dislike its flavor. While potatoes fetch eleven shillings a short bushel, it is very profitable to consider whether they agree with us. Tomatoes at twelve shillings a bushel are not fit for poor folks to eat. But apples at a dollar are wholesome and refreshing. We do well to teach our children that no one article of food is essentially necessary to comfort, so long as there is plenty of something on the board. We are only creditably wise to stop buying any one material of diet when its price becomes exorbitant, else what is the use of our skill as cooks, and what advantage have we with our endless variety over the unenlightened, who know of no mode of cookery but roasting and of no sort of food but what is produced by the untrained soil and the nearest forest? Half an hour a day given to the study of domestic economy, would make the hard Times dissipate before most families like a thin mist before the rising sun.

LEXINGTON, Oct. 5th.

A pistol fight occurred in the Phoenix Hotel last evening between young Edward Irvin, grand son of the late Hon. H. Clay, and Mr. Crandall, a blacksmith, in which the latter received two shots, one in the lower part of the abdomen, or groin. Irvin was shot on the lip, but barely grazed, and beat over the head with the pistol of Crandall, but slightly hurt. Irvin was tried this morning and acquitted. Crandall was too unwell to appear, but will recover.

DECLINE IN PORK.—A private dispatch from New York, received last evening, says that mess pork was offering there freely at $13.50, but there were no buyers at over $13. This will throw a damper on the hog market.

Johnson and Lawrence
We clip from the Louisville Daily Courier, the evidence in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ben Johnson; on a charge of shooting Ben Lawrence, with intent to kill.

Benjamin Johnson for shooting Benjamin Lawrence with intent to kill was next arraigned for examination. A good many witnesses were summoned, but they were slow in appearing, and summons of attachment were issued against them.

Wm. Glover was the first witness called for the Commonwealth. He saw Mr. Lawrence with a pistol in his hand and heard him use Mr. Johnson's name. This was in front of the bar room of the Galt House; he also heard Lawrence threaten to kill Mr. Ogden if he didn't drink with him; and then said he would shoot the witness unless he drank with him. He refused, but persuaded Lawrence to put up his pistol, and he would drink with him. The pistol was put up, but suddenly he drew it again and pointed it towards the officer of the Galt House, when Mr. Johnson, the accused, drew a pistol, and fired in the direction of Lawrence, the ball entering the wall over his head. Lawrence, who was standing near the door leading to the bar, then turned and walked to the front door, having a pillar between him and Johnson, when Johnson advanced towards him, and on passing the witness, said: "For God's sake don't shoot, the man is drunk." He, however kept on, and when within a few paces of Lawrence fired again. Lawrence still retreating, after which he saw nothing further, but heard another shot, and soon after saw some persons carrying Lawrence away.

Thos. Ferguson testified to hearing several shots in rapid succession; was a barman of the Galt House; saw Lawrence, after he had been shot, and saw him being carried out of the house before he was half an hour before in the bar, who saw his pistol; he was very drunk, had been drinking too much; didn't see Johnson, but supposed he was the one who fired the shots.

Knott testified that he was in the reception room about 7 o'clock; saw Lawrence in the bar room with a pistol in his hand, and he was afraid as he came out that it might go off; soon after he saw him point his pistol to the crowd and the witness went out, and was walking up the street, when he heard the report of a pistol, and the next moment Mr. Lawrence ran by him as fast as he could; pursued by the accused, Mr. Johnson, who gained on him rapidly, and when within a few feet fired at Mr. Lawrence, the pistol aimed about the shoulder. Lawrence's head dropped and he fell heavily to the ground, and witness and Geo. Gray picked him up, and then a pistol, Lawrence's.

The witness here said he had forgotten something, which was, that while Lawrence, Glover, and others were clustered together near the bar, some one leaned over the crowd and remarked: "It that man has any friends they had better take him away, or he will be a dead man in two minutes." Who it was he did not know, but had heard that Johnson had gone to arm himself.

W. S. D. Megowan testified to meeting Lawrence at the Galt House, when he insisted that he should desert, &c. Subsequently he heard Lawrence talking to Capt. Glover and others in the reception room. He was standing near Mr. Johnson, who was some distance from Lawrence, when Lawrence elevated a pistol and pointed in the direction of Johnson, when the latter immediately drew a pistol and fired at Lawrence, who turned to retreat, followed by Johnson, who advanced rapidly, and when they reached the street he heard two more shots, there being a crowd around the door, he could not recognize the parties. He saw Lawrence fall near the bar-room door, running at the time, and witness picked up his pistol, a revolver, and gave it to G. O. Gray, who know the accused was Mr. Johnson, having asked some one just before who he was.

Dr. D. D. Thomson attended Dr. Lawrence, and examined his wounds, the shot entering the shoulder and evidently penetrating the spine, and his system paralyzed, in which condition he remains with but little hope of his recovery. Another shot had taken effect in the right thigh, a flesh wound.

Grandison Spratt was at the Galt house, but saw nothing of the affair; heard someone, a small man, who had a pistol in his hand, say as he passed him, "I have fixed him he won't trouble me any more."

Geo. Gray and Jas. Beard, witnesses for the prosecution, were not attendance, but leave was granted to introduce their testimony, if necessary hereafter.

A good many witnesses for the defense were sworn, the first of whom Mr. Marders, testified that Lawrence had drawn his pistol on him, and several others, threatening to shoot whoever wouldn't drink with him, and he at one time took the pistol from Lawrence, who apologized, and the pistol was returned. They drank, and Lawrence, who was drunk, said he would shoot others, and then said he would kill chunk Johnson, the prisoner, that he was a fighting man, and he would shoot him, or words to that effect.

Soon after this the witness saw Mr. Johnson at the water jar, and the next moment the firing was done. Up on a cross examination he said he had gone to his room, and armed himself with a pistol, and upon going down the steps met Johnson going up the steps; had stated to persons in the house that Lawrence's friends had better take him away, as Johnson would not be trifled with, or that he wouldn't stand it. There had been some words between them some twenty minutes or more previous.

Mr. McHale testified that he was a friend of Johnson's, that they went to Owen's Hotel, was there a few minutes, having gone there to avoid a difficulty, but soon returned, and while standing at the water jar saw Lawrence advancing with a pistol, when Johnson, who stood along side stopped and fired, and advanced stopped again and fired at Lawrence, who was retreating.

Upon a cross-examination he said he did not anticipate any difficulty.

Dr. Sudiffe testified to about the same as witness.

John Kerwine, the bar-keeper heard Lawrence and Johnson disputing at the bar about the Matt Ward murder case, Lawrence saying Ward was a cold-blooded murderer, and Johnson remarking he supposed it was done in self-defense.

Lawrence had a pistol cocked on the counter, and witness refused to give them liquor until the pistol was put up. He pocketed the pistol and drank with Johnson, then went out. This was half an hour before the shooting.

Mr. Smith, of the Galt House, heard Lawrence and Johnson talking, and saw them part as friends—afterwards saw Lawrence elevate his pistol and say, "clear the way," and the next moment heard the shots, Lawrence retreating, and Johnson advancing.

Mr. De Blois testified that Mr. Lawrence had called him old sewing machine, and threatened to shoot him, and flourishing a pistol, and he borrowed a cane to knock him down. Soon after, while dodging about to keep away from such a reception he heard the report of a pistol, and Johnson advancing in a dodging way, and Lawrence retreating.

Other witnesses were sworn, by whose testimony it appeared that Lawrence was very drunk and was often.

George Gray, for the prosecution, testified that Lawrence flourished his pistol at Mr. Glover, and he, the witness, and Glover caught him, and the latter let down the cock. Soon after he pointed the pistol in the direction of the crowd, saying, "clear the track," and the next instant Johnson fired. The witness told Lawrence to look out, "Johnson is coming," or, he is coming. Lawrence turned round the pillar to the door, went out, pursued by Johnson, who fired again, the second or third shot, and Lawrence fell just beyond the barber shop. He picked him up and received the pistol of Lawrence, which was on the ground, and to the cock or hammer down, and all the loads in the pistol and caps sound.

He thinks the muzzle of Lawrence's pistol was down when Johnson fired the first shot, and he was retreating when the other two shots were fired.

The testimony here closed, and the Prosecuting Attorney demanded that Johnson be retained in custody until the condition of Lawrence is known, as there was every probability that he would die.

The court, however, decided to hold him to bail in the sum of $3,000, to answer to the charge of shooting with intent to kill. Col. Allen of Shelby went his bail, and he was discharged.

We regret to learn from the Louisville Courier, that Benjamin H. Lawrence, who was shot by Ben Johnson, some days since, died from the effects of his wound on Friday last. The Times says he leaves an interesting family and many relatives to mourn his loss.

Benjamin Johnson was arrested, and in court upon a warrant issued by Coroner White for causing the death of Benj. Lawrence, by shooting him last Monday evening. The court, without hearing the testimony again, was of the opinion that the testimony did not make a case of murder in the first degree, and concluded to require Johnson to give bail in the sum of $5,000 to answer to manslaughter, or whatever charge may be preferred by the Grand Jury. The bail was not given and he was remanded to jail.

Lawyer G. A. Caldwell here said the Coroner had exceeded his duty, and the arrest was an unwarrantable interference, the result of ignorance, and demanded the dismissal of the warrant.

The Judge decided that the Coroner had the right to issue the warrant, and made no change in the order.—Courier.

The attention of our Paris and Lexington contemporaries is respectfully directed to the following note from a gentleman of our country, who does not believe that 'a rose by any other name would smell as sweet,' and therefore feels aggrieved because of his own various misnomers. Will not our respected contemporaries of the Observer and Citizen promptly make the amende honorable? Of course they won't do nothing else!

MR. FRENCH:

As an exhibitor of Stock at the late Fair, I have been the victim of a series of most unaccountable blunders. Having been fortunate enough to win some six or eight premiums, I have had the misfortune in every instance, save one, to see my name misprinted, or the premium improperly attributed to some one else.

As the reputation of our herds, acquired through the public press, is a matter of far greater importance than the premium itself, it is rather mortifying to find the Observer attributing my premium on Sheep to the Kentucky Importing Company. Whilst the Louisville Courier calls me John Webb, and R. M. Webb, and the Paris Citizen makes me M. P. Webb and M. B. Gray!!

Since the premium as published are of little or no value to me, I hope you will do me the justice to publish the following as a list of first class premiums won by me:

At Paris for the best Jno. O. Gaunt Calf, 1st premium.

Best heifer Calf under 1 year old, 1st premium.

Best Back for Wool and Mutton combined, 1st premium.

At Eminence, for the Best heifer Calf, 1st premium.

Best Long Wool Buck, 1st premium.

At Lexington for the best Dam over and under 2 years, 1st premium.

Very Respectfully, yrs.

M. B. WEBB.

It is the general election which took place in California on the 6th ult., the Democrats carried both branches of the Legislature, and elected Denver & Herbert, anti-Broderick Democrats to Congress. The Whigs have elected 7 Senators and 35 Representatives; the Democrats 26 Senators and 45 Representatives; but it is doubtful whether the Democrats will be able to unite on an United States Senator.

In San Francisco the Know-Nothings carried every thing before them. They elected their candidate for Mayor, S. P. Webb, formerly Mayor of Salem, Mass., by over 5,000. On a ticket of 27 names, the Know-Nothings elected 20 from the nominees of the Whig and anti-Broderick convention and 7 were nominees of the Know-Nothings. They elected every man by some 4,000 majority. The Know-Notting vote is 4,000 out of about 11,000 in the whole city.

ICE HOUSES.—The old plan of building ice houses by digging a hole under ground and confining the ice without a breath of air has been discovered to be a losing business. The article thus shut out from the air melts and turns itself to water faster than it will ventilated. In some instances we have heard of a half store of ice being melted away by the old process.

The discovery that air was necessary to the preservation of ice, was merely accidental. An ice dealer at the North having gathered more ice than he could put away in his sinks, had to store a large quantity above ground in sheds, &c. On coming to compare the two modes he found that the above ground ice was in the best preservation, suffering less depreciation than that below the surface of the earth; and hence the modern plan of building ice-houses above ground, affording sufficient ventilation to guard the article against over evaporation. The same principle has been applied to refrigerators with advantage, doing away with the old system of close made boxes and substituting ventilators. We must live and learn to keep cool as well as obtain other learning, and this is a rather new discovery towards that desirable consummation.

Our esteemed friend, W. H. KEENE, (successor to Brown & Sayres) whose card appears in another column, is prepared to accommodate his friends and customers in a manner not to be surpassed by any establishment in Frankfort. From our knowledge of the man we can cordially recommend his wholesale and retail Grocery and Liquor establishment to the liberal patronage of the good citizens of old Scott.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. George Grigg and Mrs. Elizabeth Frazer, was postponed by consent of parties on Monday in order that a Judge Graves might be enabled to discharge his duties as presiding Judge of the County Court on that day. Its consideration was resumed yesterday morning when the defence was concluded by M. C. Johnson Esq. and the prosecution by the Hon. G. Robertson, in powerful speeches. The case was ably argued throughout. Judge Graves then pronounced his opinion, holding the parties for further trial, and requiring bail of each of them in the sum of $500 for themselves and a like amount for their securities. Mrs. Frazer, gave the required bail at once; Grigg has not yet done so, and was recommitted.—Observer.

We learn by telegraph, that the 'Know-Nothings' carried the city of Cincinnati, with a rush, at the election on last Tuesday.

"The most confirmed cases of the most distressing diseases, oftentimes arises from indigestion. All of us, more or less, are troubled with this annoying symptom, still as it is a general thing, we do not attempt to medicate until something serious intervenes. We would as a public monitor warn all our readers against the sin of neglect, and at the same time recommend to their notice Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, the original preparation as prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 120 Arch street, Philadelphia. We have seen cures effected through its influence.—Scott's Weekly."

GREAT CURE OF RHEUMATISM.—The Editors of the Richmond Republican, of Dec. 24, 1852, says that Carter's Spanish Mixture is no quick medicine.

They had a man in their press room who was afflicted with violent mercurial rheumatism, who was continually complaining of misery in the back, limbs and joints—his eyes had become feverish and watery, neck swollen and throat sore, and all the symptoms of rheumatism combined with scrofula. Two bottles of Carter's Spanish Mixture cured him, and in an editorial notice as above, they bear testimony to its wonderful effects, and say their only regret is, that all suffering with diseases of the blood are not aware of the existence of such a medicine. They cheerfully recommend it. See their certificate, and notice is full around each bottle.

THE LITERARY AND AROMATIC LADY.
Some of the papers having mentioned that a well known lady had been the "round" to obtain subscriptions to a book, and after getting the money makes herself obnoxious; and the editor of the Charleston Advertiser having been honored with a call, the good man discourses as follows:
"She called to see us, and promised to send us a copy. She spread a soft, plump, white hand upon our table, before our fastidious eyes, and the perfume from an embroidered handkerchief which she held pleasingly, filled our nostrils. She touched us softly with vanity, spoke of the services she had received from the dear editors, invited us to call and see her daughters at the Winthrop House, and announced us over with the most delicious 'blarney.' Owing to a vacuum in our treasury, we did not pay in advance, but ever since have been waiting patiently for the advent of the book, but we learn that some of the youthful and venerable gentlemen in this vicinity did secure her pleasant smiles and a future copy after prepayment. When she left, the room continued fragrant with the aroma of her presence. The material author of so much merit has never appeared since then."

Sudden wealth leads to early ruination. If you would have a fortune do you good, you must come into it gradually. Blossoms on the north side of the fence, are less injured by frost than those on the south—not because they freeze less, but because they thaw more gradually. Now what is true of buds, is equally true of poverty. If you don't want to terminate injuriously, you must thaw it gradually—A man who makes a thousand dollars in a week, is very likely to die of apoplexy in a fortnight. Again we repeat that it gradually. In other words, "draw it mild."

POOR FELLOW.—The editor of a country newspaper takes leave of his readers:—"The sheriff is waiting for us in the next room, so we have no time to be pathetic. Major Nab'em says we are wanted and must go. Delinquent subscribers, you have much to answer for. Heaven may forgive you, but I never can."

WHAT IS A NAME?
SAM KEENE is puffing forth his Tobacco, emblazoned with high-sounding names, done up in sugar and labeled in gold.
Gentlemen, we have just received several varieties of the weed which we would very properly call the "Elly Elgin," the "Sam Rainey," the "Lewis Tiffard," having been tested and approved by those gentlemen of acknowledged taste and of tried sensibilities. As we think however, there is but little in a name, we offer the article upon its own merits.

VENI VIDI VICI!
POLYMERACHER'S
Hydro-Electric Voltaic Chains!
ARE for the first time, presented to the people of Georgetown and vicinity, as a scientific and successful mode of applying Electro-Magnetism, in the instant relief and permanent cure of all nervous diseases: Rheumatism, Palpitation of Heart, Painful & Swollen Joints, Rheum, pains of chest, Neuralgia of the Face, Female Diseases, Deafness, Blindness, General Debility, Dyspepsia, Flatulence, Contracted Limbs, Pains in the Back, Paralysis, Sciatica, Hysteria, &c. &c. Polymeracher's Chains were first introduced into this country about one year since, in the City of New York, where they were subjected to the most rigid and thorough trial in every hospital in that city, by Professors Valentine Mott, Van Buren, Post, Carver, &c. &c. and were found that they possessed strange and wonderful power in almost instantly relieving all nervous pain wherever located, and an extraordinary cure of the results produced in every case, that their opinions were published through the public press, and thousands have been induced to try them, and no single instance have they failed to perform all we advertise to do. They are presented in this country, France, England, Germany, Austria and Belgium, and are in use in every hospital in Europe, and also in every hospital of N. Y. City.
No other Medical Agent can produce so many well authenticated certificates of cure—not only from intelligent patients, but from Scientific Physicians, and their sale wherever introduced has been unparalleled.
The chains are so constructed as to be worn near the skin, producing a constant current of Electro-Magnetism—can be used by either adults or children never get out of repair, and will grow ever more and more perfect.
Price of Chains, $3 and $5, and can be sent by mail to any part of the country. A name-plate of 36 pages always accompanies each chain, and can be had of any agent, gratis.
CAUTION TO LADIES.—Ladies who are enciente are requested not to use them for a great length of time only for a few moments; for continued use, miscarriage is frequently produced. For Uterine Pains, one end of the chain is to be applied over the abdomen, and the other upon the spine, just above the hips.

PREMIUM Indelible Writing Ink.
I WOULD call the attention of the public to the above article of Black Writing Ink, which I am now manufacturing from a recipe lately purchased of the original inventor. It flows freely from the Pen—contains no acid and therefore will not corrode steel pens, a desideratum long sought for. More over, it is very chemist to remove it from paper, and it is thus best written with, and yet it can be sold at a very low price, entire satisfaction warranted in all cases.

OUR INVOICES OF PIANO FORTES are arriving so rapidly, that we have been compelled to pack up for a tenor twelve during the past week, and our present water-rooms are weekly inadequate to our wants. We hope, therefore, that no one wishing to purchase a first rate Piano, this Summer, will fail to take advantage of the extraordinary inducements we are offering at this time; and let us here say our word in regard to Chickering's Instruments. This brand has been a great favorite for many years, and we conscientiously think, and therefore positively assert that these Pianos are in all respects equal to what they have ever been, and in some, much superior. We say, without fear of contradiction, that, as a whole, their equal cannot be found in this country.

I have waited patiently for seven months to five years without suing, but if I am not paid up soon, I shall be forced, in self-defense to put it to all who are behind.

READ THIS—MEDICINE FOR THE AFFLICTED.—DR. HALL continues to be consulted at his Office, No. 57, East Third street, on all diseases of a PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.
By a long course of study and practical experience of all kinds of medicine, and the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them failed to cure the most alarming cases of:
GONORRHEA AND SYPHILIS.
Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, impotence, Scrofula, Gonorrhoea, Ulcers, pains and distresses in the regions of Procreation, Inflammation of Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Hemorrhoids, Frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of diseases, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailments of a child.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Dr. H. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, undidling the unfortunate individual for either business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth are, weakness of the back and limbs, dizziness of the head, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, nervousness, derangement of the digestive functions, symptoms of consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded: loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating marriage consult a physician of experience and skill and beg at once restored to health and happiness.

AGUE AND FEVER cured in 24 hours, warranted.
All letters addressed to Dr. L. Hall, box 1364, Cincinnati, O. Medicines sent to any address safely packed and secured from observation.
Office at No. 57, East Third street, bet. Sycamore and Broadway, Cincinnati.
